Carl Shelton

Shelton, a native of Harrisburg, Illinois, attended SIC from 1962-64 and started as center for coach Virgil Motsinger’s inaugural basketball Falcons. During those two seasons, Shelton received All-Conference honors.

Standing some 6'5” he was one of the tallest players in the conference and intimidated opponents with his patented hook shot.

What many believe to be SIC’s finest moments in basketball came on the floor of Davenport Gymnasium in Harrisburg, Illinois when Shelton and his college teammates played before crowds of less than 25.

Carl later became a teacher and coach at Harrisburg High School.
