Damion Staple

A native of Kingston, Jamaica, Staple played from 2001 to 2003 at SIC, and was named All-Conference, All-Region and All-American. Staple moved on to Iowa State University, where his Cyclones reached the NIT Final Four in 2004 and the second round of the NCAA tournament in 2005. Since 2005, Staple has been a member of the Jamaican national team, and he has played basketball professionally in both Europe and South America. Staple currently resides in Ames with his wife, Adrienne.