Vedrana Bajagic

Bajagic, a native of Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, played basketball for the Lady Falcons from 1997-1999. Under coach Mark Motsinger, she was named NJCAA All-Great Rivers Conference and All-Region.

Her freshman year at Southeastern, Bajagic averaged 14 points and 9 rebounds per game and helped lead the 23-8 Falcons to the NJCAA Region 24 semifinals. During her sophomore year (25-6), she averaged 12 points per game and led the conference with 14 rebounds per game.

After leaving Southeastern, where she earned academic honors, Bajagic played for the University of Rhode Island women’s basketball team (1999-2001). During her final season with the URI Rams, Bajagic, described as “an agile post player and deceptive for her size,” finished 15th in rebounding, 14th in offensive rebounding, and tied for 14th in blocked shots in the Division I Atlantic Coast Conference.

Vedrana earned a bachelor’s degree in psychology from the University of Rhode Island in 2001 and her master’s degree in applied behavior analysis from the Florida Institute of Technology in 2011.
