CDL TRUCK DRIVING TRAINING AND CERTIFICATION

Interested in a career that pays well and is in high demand?

SIC's comprehensive truck driving program combines in-class training with in-truck and over-the-road training. In a growing industry where demand exists for over-the-road drivers, recruiters routinely seek out SIC students for hire, and most receive job offers before course completion.

This eight week course includes job placement assistance and hands-on training from a highly experienced instructor with a low student-to-instructor ratio. Successful completion earns participants college level credit hours, as well as a Class A Commercial Driver's License.

- Job placement assistance is included in the training.
- Students often receive job offers before graduating from the program.
- Students receive hands-on training from a highly experienced instructor.
- Low student-to-instructor ratio means more attention and support.
- Students who successfully complete the program receive a Class A Commercial Driver's License.
- Payment Plans are available.
- Alternative methods of funding maybe possible.
